RIGHT TO FARM
AWARENESS CONFERENCE

In September of 2011 the Right to Farm came under attack. Over $750,000.00 later in May of 2017 a jury found that the Hostetler chicken house was not guilty of trespassing dust onto a neighbor’s property. This could happen to anyone of us. Please join us for an informative conference on the Right to Farm and how to protect yourselves.

Featuring:
Angus McIntosh: Executive Director for the Range Allotment Owners Assoc.

and

Budd Falen Law Firm’s Brandon Jensen

For more information, please call
David Kuntz 970-640-7851 or Olen Lund 970-712-0306
Please call Rosemary Anderson 970-874-9550
or Barbara Hulet 970-323-2751 to order tickets

Tickets: $20.00

Tuesday, November 14, 2017
10:00am - 4:30pm
Mesa County Fairgrounds
2785 Hwy 50
Grand Junction, Colorado

Lunch will be served, intermittent pie auction.
Make checks payable to Right to Farm Conference.
(Bios of speakers on the back side.)
Dr. Angus McIntosh has over 16 years of federal service working throughout the Western States primarily for the US Forest Service, and the Natural Resource Conservation Service as a Range Conservationist and Rangeland Management Specialist. He has received numerous awards and recognition from the US Department of Agriculture, the Coalition of Arizona & New Mexico Counties, the National Federal Lands Conference, the Society for Range Management, the Phelps-Dodge Mining Company, State of Wyoming Department of Agriculture and R-CALF USA for his work in range management, surface mining-reclamation, and property rights research and education. Angus is admitted as an Expert Witness in the Federal District Courts and has given expert testimony and reports in the Federal District Courts of Arizona, Colorado, Nevada, Oregon, the United States Court of Federal Claims and the Interior Board of Land Appeals. As Executive Director for the Range Allotment Owners Association he has worked closely with the national livestock producer's organization R-Calf USA to promote Allotment Owners property rights and protect the rights of US cattle producers.

Brandon Jensen 300 East 18th Street • Cheyenne, Wyoming 82001 • (307)632-5105 • brandon@buddfalen.com Brandon L. Jensen is an associate with the Budd-Falen Law Offices, L.L.C. in Cheyenne, Wyoming where he practices natural resources law, environmental law, administrative law, water law, and land-use and property rights law. Brandon has experience representing clients in administrative law proceedings, before courts of the United States of America, and before Wyoming state courts. Brandon received his Bachelor of Science degree in Wildlife Biology from Colorado State University in Fort Collins, Colorado. Brandon received his Juris Doctor and Master of Studies in Environmental Law from Vermont Law School in South Royalton, Vermont. Brandon is licensed to practice law in the states of Colorado and Wyoming. During law school, Brandon was a member of the Vermont Law Review and wrote an article concerning the Endangered Species Act which was published in fall, 1999. In addition, Brandon was a member of the Vermont Law School Environmental Moot Court Advisory Board and represented Vermont Law School in a national environmental moot court competition at Pace Law School. During that competition, Vermont Law School was awarded the best overall brief and Brandon was awarded a Best Oralist Award. Brandon was also named in Who's Who: American Law Students and earned two Academic Excellence Awards.

What would restrictions in a Right to Farm state look like if the Hostetler Family had lost? Any one of us could be next.